

HUDSON COUNTY POLITICS.

SOME COAL TRUST ASSEMBLYMEN WANT A VINDICATION.

Moss Davis Gives These Men a Little Plain Talk—What They Call a "Vindication" Would be a Conviction of Mr. Wagner.

Some of the Hudson county members of last year's Assembly who voted for the coal trust bill are not inclined to follow the good example set by Senator Hudspeth in declining a re-nomination. They are bent upon running again, although defeat stares them in the face, and their candidacy will materially weaken the national and State tickets. The leaders are doing all in their power to have these men withdraw. Two conferences have been held, but nothing has been accomplished.

Assemblyman Wagner is seeking a renomination in the First district. The majority there is small, and Mr. Wagner cannot possibly be elected. James Tidmarsh is seeking a renomination in the Third district. He believes he was right when he voted for the objectionable bill, and he wants a vindication.

"If I withdraw," he says, "it will be a confession that I have done something wrong. I would rather be defeated than withdraw."

Some of his friends suggested to him that if he is defeated it will be a conviction of having done something wrong, but he insists upon getting the nomination. The friends explained to him that if he ran again they would probably cost the State and national tickets a great many votes, and he said he had no interest in the State and national tickets; he was looking out for himself.

Patrick Henry O'Neill has retired from the field in the Fourth district, although he did not offer or run for the bill. He retired because Judge Robert Davison thought it advisable that he should do so. George A. Henney, who represents the Thirteenth district, retired from the contest voluntarily some time ago. He decided that it is next to impossible for any man who voted for the bill to be re-elected, and while his suspicion is clear on the subject, he believes with Senator Hudspeth that no man who voted for the bill ought to imperil his chances of being elected by seeking a re-election.

After the election, the Hudson and Ninth district declines to withdraw. He holds the offices of Auditor and Police Commissioner, and the sale of tokens to new subscribers will commence on and after Oct. 1st. Post office open from 9 A.M. Address communications to Mr. Reino, Music Hall.
